Untimely Democracy offers an exploration of how one of the bleakest periods in American racial history provided fertile terrain for a radical reconstruction of America's most fundamental assumptions about democracy well known in her day as a singer, playwright, author and editor of the Colored American Magazine, Pauline Hopkins (1859-1930) has been the subject of considerable scholarly attention over the last twenty years. Academic review of her many accomplishments however largely overlooks Hopkins's contributions as novelist. The Motherless Child in the novels of Pauline Hopkins: The First Book Length Study of Hopkins's Major Fiction fills this gap offering a sustained analysis of motherlessness in contending forces: Hagar's daughter Winona and One Blood. Motherlessness appears in all of Hopkins's novels. The motif Jill Bergman asserts resonated profoundly for African Americans living with the legacy of abduction from a motherland and familial fragmentation under slavery. In her novels motherlessness serves as a trope for the national alienation of post-reconstruction African Americans. The longing and search for a maternal figure then represents an effort to reconnect with the absent mother, a missing parent and a lost African history and heritage. In Hopkins's oeuvre the image of the mother of African heritage, a source of both identity and persecution becomes a source of power and possibility. Bergman shows how historical events such as Bleeding Kansas, the execution of John Brown and the middle passage gave rise to a sense of motherlessness and how Hopkins's work engages with that of other contemporaneous race activists. This illuminating study opens new terrain not only in Hopkins scholarship but also in the complex interchanges between literary African American, psychoanalytic, feminist and postcolonial studies.

Romance, Diaspora and Black Atlantic Literature offers a rich interdisciplinary treatment of modern Black literature and cultural history showing how debates over Africa in the works of major Black writers generated productive models for imagining political agency. Yogita Goyal analyzes the tensions between romance and realism in the literature of the African diaspora examining a remarkably diverse group of twentieth century authors including W. E. B. Du Bois, Chinua Achebe, Richard Wright, Ama Ata Aidoo and Caryl Phillips. Shifting the center of Black diaspora studies by considering Africa as constitutive of Black modernity rather than its forgotten past, Goyal argues that it is through the figure of romance that the possibility of diaspora is imagined across time and space. Drawing on literature, political history and postcolonial theory, this significant addition to the cross-cultural study of literatures will be of interest to scholars of African American studies, African studies and American literary studies.
